

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

PRESENT indications are (says a federal cotton bulletin just received) that, although in regard to American cotton the 1933 crop will be considerably below world consumption in 1933-34 and the world carry-over at the end of this season will be somewhat further reduced, the total supply will still be very large. . . . World consumption of all cotton in 1932-33 increased about 2 million bales over that of the previous season and was the highest for three years.

Freedom of Press Guaranteed, Says Blue Eagle Chief

No Authority Under NRA to License Newspapers,
Johnson Declares

LASHES AT CRITICS

He Says Big Business
Wants Anti-Trust Laws
Suspended—for Nothing

CHICAGO — (AP) — Gen. Hugh S. Johnson said Monday that "the biggest imitation dead cat" thrown thus far by objectors to the NRA is the one about the freedom of the press. The government has no intention of attempting to censor or control the newspapers he said and could not do so even if it wanted to.

He represented President Roosevelt, himself, and all the administration as being receptive to fair criticism, but declared that some newspapers have lent themselves to "wild doctored" and "misleading the jitters with headlines."

Johnson spoke before an audience of business men, industrialists and financiers. "I do not believe in any restrictions, whatever, on the press today," Johnson said. "I am now going to take an official step which I think will level this silly bugaboo forever."

"In my official opinion, there is no authority in the N. I. R. A. to license a newspaper. I think that the licensing sections of the statute must be read with the free press clauses of the constitution. I think that, together, they clearly preclude the idea of any intent of congress to create any right in the N. I. R. A. to license the press."

Speech First of Series
Johnson's speech was the first of a series of six to be delivered in the corn belt, disturbed at present by a farm selling strike. He delivered it before 4,000 members of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

Appealing for full support of the recovery program, he said all the objections raised at the NRA, freedom of the press, constitutionality of the recovery act, and interference with private individualism, were either "synthetic dead cats" or "hogbolins." He said the true grounds for opposition to the NRA were not those issues, but rather the desire of "a few powerful men . . . for the benefit of the rest but none of their burdens."

He said "they want to organize and combine and escape the inhibitions of the Sherman act but they don't want to give anything in return for these burdens. They want to give nothing and take everything."

He questioned whether some of the objections did not result because the NRA "raised wages and reduced hours of work and thus increased costs in order to relieve the despair of four million bread winners."

Declaring that the NRA and the Roosevelt administration have "pulled the country one quarter way out of the March damps, 25 per cent in six months," Johnson said it had done so without violating the constitution, menacing the freedom of the press, or coercing any industry into a code.

Modern "Witch Doctors"
Some opponents of the NRA, Johnson said, have resorted to a device of "witch doctors," who he described as "to set up a hogboblin and then dance around the fire heating the ton-ton."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt announced Tuesday that the British war debt negotiations had been ended without reaching an agreement but with the payment of 7 1/2 million dollars by Great Britain on its December 15th installment, although 117 millions is due at that time.

The president announced that in view of the part-payment he would not regard the British as in default.

Pound Up, Dollar Falls
NEW YORK — (AP) — An upswing in the British pound sterling in relation to both the American dollar and the French gold franc—taking it to the highest level in terms of the dollar since the autumn of 1914—was decidedly confusing to Wall Street Monday.

While American purchases of gold in London and Paris made through an agency of the Federal Reserve bank for the R. F. C., as part of the new dollar control program, were described in Washington as "substantial," authoritative quarters here doubted that R. F. C. gold purchases in London had been sufficient to cause the sharp upswing in the pound.

The upswing in the pound, carrying it to $4.92 1/2, or well above its old parity with the dollar of $4.86 1/2 took place before financial institutions in this country had opened. At the same time, the pound advanced about one franc in terms of the French franc.

International banking quarters here thought the rise in the pound against the gold currencies meant chiefly that there was a further flight of capital from the gold standard countries to London in progress.

Cornelius Seized With 45 Gallons

City Officers Answer
"Protection" Rumor
With Quick Raid

Tipped off that a cargo of liquor was to be delivered to the South Main street residence of Jack Cornelius, officers early Monday night raided it, taking 45 gallons of whisky.

The driver of the liquor laden automobile, arriving 40 minutes earlier than officers had timed him, eluded a trap set by Chief of Police Clarence Baker.

The whisky was found in a barn at the rear of the Cornelius home. It was all in five kegs, four of which contained 10 gallons, the other, five gallons.

Informal that he was being "knocked off," officers quoted Cornelius as saying: "Boys, it's out there—go and get it."

Cornelius was arrested, but made bond and was released. He will be given a hearing Monday in municipal court.

Numerous complaints reached officers the past few days, they said, but the raid was held up, pending definite information that another shipment of liquor was forthcoming. It arrived, but the driver of the car getting there sooner than the officers expected escaped.

The arrest of Cornelius was reported to be in answer to gossip that Cornelius was being "protected" and was running wide open. Chief Baker made it plain Tuesday that "we're going to keep after whisky-sellers as long as it is against the law—and I want it said, to that nobody is being protected by any of our officials."

Making the raid were, Officers Baker, Turner, Burke, Arnett and Ship.

Russian Envoy Arrives

Probably no White House greeting of the Roosevelt administration has carried more significance than will be attached to the welcome the president will extend to Maxim Litvinov, commissar of foreign affairs for Soviet Russia, now en route to Washington for discussions looking to recognition of the Soviet by the U. S. This striking drawing is by Don Lavin, NEA staff artist.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Maxim Litvinov, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, arrived here Tuesday for conversations with President Roosevelt.

Litvinov expressed the hope that "the establishment of normal relations between the Soviet government and the United States would bring about actual disarmament."

"The Soviet Union is inspired," he told interviewers, "by the example of your country in its methods of subordinating natural forces to the needs of humanity, enabling you to build the most technically progressive country in the world."

In so holding, he upheld the contention of counsel for D. D. Terry, congressional nominee, in the contest brought by the defeated candidate, Brooks Hays.

The judge overruled the demurrer filed by Hays' counsel and also the response, in which it was charged that the nomination of Chief Justice C. E. Johnson was irregular.

Russians Prepared for

Against Siberia

MOSCOW, Russia — (AP) — The Soviet government's hope for a successful outcome of the Washington recognition negotiations and a sharp warning to Japan to keep hands off in the Soviet Far East were sounded Monday night by Vyacheslav Molotov, president of the Council of Commissioners.

Molotov directed attention to a Soviet proposal to sell the Chinese Eastern railway and its failure to obtain the signature of Japan to a non-aggression pact and added: "Events in Manchuria show that treaties and contracts between the U. S. S. R. and Manchuria and Japan have not been kept."

"Further, the Japanese press becomes increasingly more insolent in publishing plans for the annexation of Siberia."

"This causes us to be very attentive and compels us to prepare for unexpected events. The governments in Manchuria is not responsible for this situation."

"Japan is the master there and is responsible for everything. So, while striving to keep friendly relations everywhere, we shall continue as in the last year to strengthen the Red army in the Far East. We expect when the moment comes that it will be victorious."

Enthusiastic applause and cheering greeted this last remark.

$300,000 Turned Loose for Cotton

Government Loan of 10
Cents Per Pound Taken Advantage of

Nearly $300,000 has been placed into circulation in Hempstead in the past 10 working days due to government loans of 10 cents a pound to cotton growers who agree to reduce acreage planted in this community next year.

A total of 5,588 bales of cotton have been warehoused for government loans at the Union compress from October 26, the first date 10-cent loans were available in the county, until the close of business Monday night, November 6. More than 90 per cent of this cotton was grown in Hempstead county, according to H. O. Kyrle, compress manager.

At an average of 520 pounds to the bale, this figures amount to $290,000. Although the compress reports the big rush to take advantage of the loan is over, considerable more cotton is expected to be handled through various dealers making government loans.

These 10-cent loans have been made on about one-third of Hempstead county's crop this year, it is estimated.

Compress receipts thus far this season are slightly ahead of the same date last year, although wagon and truck receipts are somewhat less.

Total receipts at the compress up to Monday night were 38,753 bales, of which 26,015 were by rail and 12,737 by wagon.

Last year's receipts, up to the same date, were 37,449 bales of which 26,121 were by rail, and 11,328 by wagon.

S. H. Turner Buried Here on Tuesday

Funeral services for S. H. Turner, 71, well known Hempstead county landowner who died Monday after a brief illness, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the funeral parlor of Hope Furniture company.

Officiating was the Rev. Floyd Clark, pastor of Mt. Nebo Baptist church, of which Mr. Turner was a member, assisted by the Rev. Wallace R. Rogers, pastor of First Baptist church, Hope. Burial was in Rose Hill cemetery.

Palbearers were: J. H. Burns, J. B. Powell, Arvin Rogers, Guy Stevens, Floyd Rogers and Andrew Powell.

Born in Barnard, Mo., Mr. Turner moved to Hempstead county nearly 30 years ago, settling at Baker's Switch, below Fatmos.

He is the father of Erle Turner, former Hope newspaperman.

Others surviving are his widow and two sons, Dale, of Fatmos, Clifton of Shreveport; a brother, C. A. Turner of Sackett, Colo., and a number of nephews and nieces of Barnard, Mo.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Violence and disorders accompanied the voting in the municipal elections here Tuesday.

Fusion forces threatened to demand the protection of National Guard troops from gangs of marauding thugs. One man was stabbed, a score of election workers were blackjacked and beaten, and an entire election board arrested as the voters belatedly in one of the stormiest elections in a generation, in which Tammany Hall is fighting for survival.

A police alarm was sent out in Brooklyn for a cruising squad of thugs who stabbed George Bennett, worker for Candidate Joseph V. McKee, and manhandled workers and watchers at various polling booths.

Only the interference of police prevented a clash at a polling place between Candidate LaGuardia and a polling official as Colonel LaGuardia was about to cast his vote.

In Fleming county, Watt Dearing was shot and critically wounded, and his son, Jim, was arrested in connection with the affair.

Man Killed in Kentucky

By the Associated Press
Voters in half a dozen widely-scattered states Tuesday are inscribing their answer to whether 13 years of national prohibition shall end next month.

Of almost equal importance to a large portion of the electorate is New York City's three-way mayoralty contest in which Tammany's long reign is at stake.

Confidence that the balloting in Pennsylvania, Ohio, North and South Carolina, Kentucky and Utah would climax the administration's campaign to restore liquor was expressed by Postmaster General Farley, who also brought the administration a bit closer to the New York City race with a last-minute open appeal for the election of Joseph V. McKee.

McKee is the candidate of the Independent Democrats.

Mayor O'Brien, Tammany Hall candidate, holds the regular Democratic nomination.

The Fusion-Republican ticket is headed by Fiorello LaGuardia, former independent Republican congressman and ancient foe of Tammany Hall.

By the Associated Press
Prohibition repeal comes before the voters of six states Tuesday in what promises to be the decisive test of whether the constitution shall retain its anti-liquor provisions. More than a fifth of the nation's population lives in the six states, Pennsylvania, Ohio, South Carolina, North Carolina, Kentucky and Utah.

Of the local issues, chief attention centers upon the three-cornered mayoral contest in New York City in which is involved whether Tammany Hall shall continue its domination.

Administration leaders who have been urging removal of the Eighteenth amendment from the constitution, viewed Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Kentucky as virtually certain to add their votes to the 33 states which have voted for repeal and said the vote was little doubt that Ohio and North Carolina would do likewise.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Johnson Faces Tough Job in Reselling NRA... Camps to Help Transients in Effort to "Come Back"... Close Watch Kept on Gold Mines.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—General Johnson's western barnstorming tour to sell NRA is more than a mere effort to appease dissatisfied farmers. NRA is under fire on other fronts and the administration, disturbed, decided on a major counter-propaganda campaign.

Reaction to Johnson's attack on Henry Ford, which was backed by President Roosevelt himself, has been a little sour. Some administration folks have chalked up an error for "the general," feeling that he should have waited for a more clean-cut case against the automobile manufacturer.

The effort to make support of NRA a patriotic duty, reminiscent of war days, is somewhat bogged. The Hearst press, hounding the recovery organization daily and many Republican newspapers are anticipating the party attack expected in the next Congress.

Representative James M. Beck, C. O. P. pundit, has let loose a slashing attack on constitutionality of the recovery act.

Hostility of steel and other big interests is recognized. NRA people in the field have reported an increased disgruntlement. Capital thinks labor is getting too much, and vice versa.

Confusion of policy at Washington headquarters irks many business men, who tell sad stories about visits here in attempts to learn things. Altogether, Warhorse Johnson has a job on his hands.

Sniffs for Bullitt
Special Assistant William C. Bullitt, State Department mystery man, has been a frequent unheralded visitor to the White House lately in advance of the Litvinov conferences. He is Roosevelt's special Russian advisor, but State Department career men regard him as an outsider and sniff at him.

Governor Gifford Pinchot, on a recent visit to his friend Roosevelt, asked federal troops for Pennsylvania coal strike areas. Such action would have dramatic effect and would save to state money on militiamen. Roosevelt turned down the proposal.

Federal employees complain that Uncle Sam saves thousands of dollars in interest by frequent delays in paying salaries. Recent squawks have come from the Agricultural Printing Office and the Government Adjustment Administration.

Camps for Transients
Without much publicity, the old proposal of New Mexico's Senator Clegg for state camps to care for the transient unemployed is becoming a reality under the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Each state will have such a camp. New York is inaugurating two or three and another already is operating in Pennsylvania. Transients will be taken in and made to work for meals and lodging if work is available—otherwise not.

Medical examination and treatment will be provided, along with effort toward rehabilitation. The plan resembles closely that for which Cutting fought vainly during several months.

Gold Mines Eyed
The Federal Trade Commission, operating under the securities act, has its eagle eye on gold mining companies, now that the administration's new gold policy is certain to stimulate production.

Mines containing little or no gold are expected to be opened and the FTC carefully will scrutinize all stock sales.

It's Embarrassing
The Oil Administration is embarrassed to find that it recently appointed a man to its marketing division in a western state who twice had been indicted and once convicted. The most recent indictment charges fraud in a bankruptcy case.

The outstanding beauties in America grow older every year, of course. But their complexions do not. Which proves that it is possible for a middle-aged woman to have skin as soft and lovely as that of a 19-year-old college girl.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

©1933 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

We have to look pretty deep for reasons sometimes when a child is mean or cross or cruel.

One Bruce, we'll say, is not a bit nice to Anna May. He breaks her toys and chases her and is the terror of Anna May's life.

His mother cannot understand it, neither can Anna May's mother. The two women are inseparable friends and dreamed up their children growing up together and even of marrying someday.

Bruce is fine to other people, or at least he was until recently. Now he is beginning to chase other children occasionally and to kick other dogs, and cats too. He has been whipped but it does no good. He has been made to tell the little girl he was sorry. He has been put to bed, lectured, shaved—run through the entire gamut of punishment. Yet there is no question that he is getting worse. Each whipping or scolding brings a reprisal of more bad behavior.

His mother thought he might be jealous of Anna May, so she ceased making too much fuss over her or her dog. It has helped some but Bruce continues his generally bad conduct.

The answer is clear. Bruce is jealous, not of Anna May, but of Anna May's mother. She takes his mother's time away from him and part of his mother's love.

Jealousy and Misconduct
If he had grown up from babyhood accustomed to his mother's friend it would have been different. But she lived in another city and only a year ago came back to the city of her girlhood and took a house three doors from her old friend, Bruce's mother.

It was a quiet suburb and the boy's mother had few friends before. Neither she nor her husband went out much and the boy had grown to his five years with his mother right on hand every minute.

Now it was different. The two women sometimes go out together of an afternoon and engage a girl to look after the two children while they are gone.

A Bid for Attention
Not only that, but Bruce hears his mother call her friend "dear," sees her occasionally kiss her, and pet the little girl and the dog.

Jealous—yes—and one thing more besides. Many a child who cannot get all the attention he wants will resort to bad behavior; too few people realize that poor conduct is very often only a bid for attention.

But when Bruce is punished he lays the blame directly to the door of those people whom he hates. This explains why it makes him worse. He includes the dog too, and even the neighbor like him because he has been so mean to Anna May. Once started, there is no end to it.

If his mother had gone more slowly about introducing her old friend into Bruce's life and heart it probably would have been different. But he will never like either her or her daughter.

Selfish? Yes. All children are selfish.

beautiful if you will just take the time to give it a little deserved attention.

The time to begin is when you're young. Get into the habit of a daily beauty routine and the chances are that you'll have no cause for worry later on. However, if you have neglected your skin, there still is time to do something about it.

Every woman over thirty needs a nourishing cream. Call it tissue cream or anything else that you wish but be sure that it is composed of oils and not of animal fats. When your face has been given its nightly cleansing, smooth on a little nourishing cream and leave it on all night. It puts back the oils which the years tend to take out of your complexion.

A foundation cream is another necessity. There are grand liquid ones and also cream varieties, if you prefer. But do get one and put it on before you touch your face with either powder or rouge. It keeps the skin moist and soft and protects it from wind and dust.

Forgotten Sweetheart

BY MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JOAN WARING, pretty Memphis girl, and BOB WESTON, son of a New York millionaire, meet in Memphis and fall in love.

They become estranged through the scheming of BARBARA COURTNEY, who is trying to win Bob. Pat, Joan's younger sister, runs away to New York after an unhappy love affair. Joan follows and after a long hunt finds Pat.

Joan is hired as a singer in a night club. Believing Bob lost in New York, she becomes engaged to HARRY BLAKE, owner of the night club.

Later Pat becomes Harry's secretary and he discovers that it is Pat he loves instead of Joan. Joan sings at a private entertainment and discovers she is in Bob's house. She steals a look at her sister's stropher. Bob tells her the conclusion that Joan is living there as "Mrs. Blake." He flings her from him and rushes away.

Joan tells Harry of her love for Bob and Harry and Pat are married and sail on a honeymoon. Joan learns Bob has gone on a cruise. Desperately unhappy, she returns to Memphis, in Havana Bob Weston sees Pat and Harry together.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV

ONE thing marred Mrs. Waring's happiness during the days that followed Joan's return home. That was the way in which her daughter refused to be paraded before their friends.

Mrs. Waring would have liked to walk along Main street and about the stores, having people stare, thinking of Joan's success and glamorous adventures in New York.

The mother's triumphant manner was like a banner proclaiming, "This is my daughter. She has been singing at the most popular night club in New York!" She could not have been prouder if Joan had sung at the Metropolitan.

But Joan refused to be "shown off." She had come home wearing the same suit she had worn when she departed. There was an unimpressive array of frocks in the closet of her bedroom. The beautiful costumes she had worn when she sang had been packed in a heavier trunk to come later.

There was nothing whatever about Joan's appearance to suggest the brilliance and glitter of the life which had so recently enveloped her. She was content to sit at home, preferring to be there.

She had drifted easily into the homely round of duties and seemed to find pleasure in such mild excitement as challenging Benny to a game of croquet, going to the library with him, attending a movie or discussing household plans with Mrs. Waring and Sara, her sister-in-law.

Happy as she was to have her daughter at home, Mrs. Waring unconsciously sighed for a little of the reflected glory she thought might rightfully have been hers.

THEN, too, Joan flatly refused to capitalize her accomplishments. She had declared her intention of staying home "forever and ever." She had said this fervently, almost childishly. She would find some work here in Memphis, she declared, perhaps teaching a class of vocal students.

"Well, there's nothing like striking while the iron is hot," her mother counseled wisely. "You wouldn't have any trouble getting pupils now while everybody is talking about you."

"No," Joan said, "I hate that."

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS Make this 25c Test

You need a bladder laxative to drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25c box of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. BUKETS, containing bucku leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache, or leg pains arising from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Brint's Drug Store and the John S. Gibson Drug Co. say BUKETS is a best seller. (Adv.)

clerk at the hotel where King resided, a pretty girl, blond and smartly dressed, asked for the number of the orchestra leader's apartment on the evening of the fatal shooting. She left the hotel, according to Lank, only a few minutes before the body of King was found by Joseph Dragan, orchestra player and friend of the slain man.

Denise Lang, attractive society girl whose engagement to King was recently announced, could not be reached for a statement today. Arthur J. Lang, her father, shrilly refused to talk to reporters, but other members of the family admitted Miss Lang was prostrated by the news of the murder and confined to her bed under a doctor's care.

Identity of King's mysterious caller will be revealed in "The Unknown Blond," a mystery romance that will begin Thursday in the city edition and Friday in the mail edition of Hope Star. The heroine of this story is the attractive young woman who was accused of the shooting of a popular orchestra leader. The hero is a novelist who offers the unknown blond a ride on the night of the murder and accidentally becomes a leading figure in a romantic and exciting drama.

Author of "The Unknown Blond" is Laura Lou Brockman, who has a number of popular serials to her credit.

principal markets for their proximity. The day's price set by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was $32.84, a jump of 17 cents over last Saturday's quotation, and 38 cents in excess of the London price. The London price was down 6 1/2 pence, or approximately 13 cents under the previous close. The new figure maintained the constant upward revision that has gone ahead since the domestic market was opened on October 25.

The extent of domestic transactions in gold was disclosed earlier in the day by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He said $2,800,000 had been purchased, declining, however, to name the amount of foreign purchases which, he said, represented a "considerable amount."

Administration officials, in charge of the program, continued to adhere strictly to the usual silence with respect to gold.

U. S. Aid Is Asked by County Judges

Paralysis of Local Taxes Cited in Public Works Board Appeal

LITTLE ROCK—After adopting a resolution Monday urging the State Advisory Board of the Public Works Administration and the State Emergency Relief Commission to make available federal funds for improvement of county highways, members of the Arkansas County Judges association Monday night telegraphed the resolution to public works and federal relief officials in Washington urging immediate acceptance of applications that will be formulated by the state agencies as soon as possible.

The judges emphasized that a majority of the counties in Arkansas are unable to continue road improvement work without aid from the government. The federal Relief Administration has indicated its willingness to co-operate by providing labor.

Action of voters in refusing to levy a county three-mill road tax in several counties has brought about an acute situation in the counties, it was said. In other counties revenue from the three-mill tax has been inadequate because of decreases in assessed valuation and because of the 1924 plan of paying taxes on the installment plan.

Attention Please

Notice my flock of royal blue woolen with scarlet crepe collar and jabot. The smart shoulder is one of the newest fashions.

Sure to attract attention all along the line is this costume of royal blue woolen which also can be made of black velvet, faille, silk or wool-tweed. It's designed in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 38 requires 2 7/8 yards of 64-inch material, plus 1-2 yard of 35-inch material, contrast, for the collar and cuffs.

To secure a pattern and simple sewing chart of this model, tear out this sketch and mail it to Julia Boyd, 103 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y., together with 15 cents in coin. Be sure to enclose on a separate sheet of paper, your name, full address, your size, the number of this pattern (No. 14958), and mention the name of this newspaper.

The road maintenance situation is further handicapped by the highway injunction suit in federal court which has tied up all highway funds, including $300,000 in the county highway fund.

Assurance that the Public Works Administration will look with favor upon the application of the association for an outright grant of 30 per cent to go with 70 per cent to be provided by the Relief Administration in paid man-power was given by Mr. Horner, who said he regarded the county road improvement project one of the most worthy in the state.

The 30 per cent grant would be used to buy gasoline, materials and hire supervisory foremen, most of the counties already having necessary road improvement equipment. The additional 70 per cent, which would be furnished through the Relief Administration, would consist of wages for laborers.

School Crisis Is Put Up to State

Legislature Blamed for "Passing Buck" to Local Districts

LITTLE ROCK.—The state is called upon to guarantee financial support for a foundation program of education throughout Arkansas in a report adopted by the Ways and Means Committee of the Arkansas Education association at a meeting at the capitol Monday.

The report will be submitted to the Council of Education November 16 before it is presented to the association, which will open its annual convention here that night.

The report says that "it is necessary that the state take emergency action in funding the outstanding current indebtedness of the school districts in order to put the schools on a cash basis of operation."

Blame for the "collapse of the financial structure of the state school system" is placed on the legislature, which "under our constitution has all the power over the public schools and therefore all the responsibility for adequate control and financial support."

The committee charges the legislature.

Scanning New Books

By BRUCE CATTION
If there is anything in the theory that posterity will be more interested in our gangsters than in any other single feature of present-day life, our grandchildren probably will consider "Fast One," by Paul Cain, something in the way of a classic.
You might call this a gangster novel to end all gangster novels. It leaves nothing to be said; all the battle, murder and sudden death any fictioneer could imagine are here, jammed between the covers of one book, a homicidal carnival that leaves nothing unsaid and nobody unshot.
A muscle man from the east, name of Kells, is taking a vacation in Los Angeles. More or less against his will he is drawn into the gang rivalries there. There are three mobs, engaged in the merry practice of putting knives into one another's backs for the booze, gambling, and similar privileges. Kells draws cards before he realizes that he is going to play.
He does right well at it, too, and pretty soon he discovers that, if things work out right, he can be the undisputed Big Shot of all Los Angeles. This, of course, requires the removal of certain commercial rivals, so he sets out to remove them. And the fun begins.
In the end every major character and practically all the minor ones—as far as I can recall—have been killed, including Kells himself. If unrestrained homicide is your dish, you can't help liking "Fast One." Any gang novel, after this, will seem like an anti-climax.
The book is published by Doubleday, Doran & Co., for $2.
